Crazy 8's
BLACKJACK

Rev.07/29/2003

1) "Crazy 8's" is a bonus bet added to regular blackjack. It is an optional bet in the game of Blackjack. The player is betting that he/she will receive an 8 in the first two cards, with increased payoffs for additional consecutive 8's received (In order to receive a bonus for 2 or more 8's your first card must be an 8.)
2) The outcome of the primary Blackjack bet has no bearing on the "Crazy 8's" bet and vice versa. A player can win on one and lose on the other.
3) There is no affect on the primary game of Blackjack and no changes in dealing procedures except as provided in these rules.
4) The "Crazy 8's" bet will have a minimum of $1 and a maximum to be established by the house up to the legal maximum allowed by state regulation.
5) Players must place all bets prior to the first card being delivered.
6) Players are required to place an original Blackjack bet to participate in the hand. The "Crazy 8's" bet is an optional bonus wager offered to the player.
7) A player will win on their "Crazy 8's" bet when either of the first two cards received is an "8". They will receive higher payout odds for each corresponding consecutive "8" received on that hand based on the "Crazy 8's" paytable selected by the house. (In order to receive a bonus for 2 or more 8's your first card must be an 8.)
8) The pay table used will be selected by the house.
9) Original bets will be paid and taken according to the house rules for standard blackjack.
10) The game will be dealt using an eight (8) - deck shoe.
11) The shoe will be shuffled using standard house shuffling procedures, or with a mechanical shuffler provided by a state approved game supplier.
12) Each player will receive two (2) cards face-up and the dealer will receive two (2) cards, one card face-up and one card face down. The cards will be dealt from left to right, with the dealers' hand being last.
13) The dealer will then take all losing bonus bets.
14) The dealer will immediately pay all winning "Crazy 8's" bonus bets that have received one 8 value card in their first two cards.

15) If the Dealer has an Ace up the players will be given the option to place an Insurance bet (up to half of their original bet) before checking for a Blackjack.
16) The dealer will determine if they have a Blackjack (Ace and a Ten Value Card) using a "no-peek" device.
17) If the dealer does have a Blackjack, Insurance bets will be paid two to one and all losing original bets will be collected.
    a. The dealer will then pick up all hands except for those having placed a "Crazy 8's" bonus bet receiving 8's as their first two cards.
    b. These hands will be given additional cards, in turn, as long as the consecutive cards are of 8 value and will be paid according to the house way.
18) If the dealer does not have Blackjack, Insurance bets will lose and each player may hit or stay on their hand individually, from left to right, based on the house rules for blackjack.
19) Hands that have two 8's will be given one card in turn to determine if another 8 is delivered to that position. If the third card delivered is not an 8, the bonus bet will be paid according to the bonus paytable and the hand will continue.
20) In the event that a player with a "Crazy 8's" bet chooses to hit when they have two original 8's and a third 8 is delivered, busting the hand. The dealer will collect the losing Blackjack bet and continue to deliver cards to the position until any card other than an 8 is distributed. The player will then will be paid according to the bonus paytable and the hand will continue with the next player.
21) In the event that additional 8's are delivered consecutively to a betting position, the player will be paid the equivalent paytable to the number of consecutive 8's received.
22) If a player having received two 8's on the first two cards does not wish to split (splitting is recommended) and decides to hit instead, he/she will signal the hand off (stand). The dealer will notify the floor person of the situation and will proceed to deliver cards in front of the position as long as consecutive 8's are delivered. Once a delivered card is not an 8, the player will be paid according to the bonus pay-table. The extra cards not part of the original blackjack hand will be discarded and the hand will continue.
23) Splitting 8's (recommended) will not negate the "Crazy 8's" bonus bet.
