I.

The Washington State Gambling Commission issued Juan R. Correa the following certification:¹
Number 69-12897, authorizing Class III Employee activity at Legends Casino.

The certification expires on March 22, 2014, and was issued subject to the Class III employee's compliance with state gambling laws and rules and the Yakama Nation Tribal/State Compact.

II.

David Trujillo, Director of the Washington State Gambling Commission, charges Juan R. Correa with the following violations of the Washington State Gambling Act, 9.46 RCW, and WAC Title 230, and the Yakama Nation Tribal/State Compact:

SUMMARY:

Juan R. Correa conspired with another employee in the Marketing Department at Legends Casino to manipulate the weekly Players Club Drawing to produce a certain predictable winner. After the winner claimed their cash prize, they would give a portion of the winnings to Mr. Correa. The total loss to the casino was at least $64,000.

FACTS:

1. The Legends Casino celebrated its 15th Anniversary by running a promotional drawing every 30 minutes between February 6, 2013, and May 15, 2013. Customers obtained entry cards by accumulating points on their Player's Club card, buying into a live poker game or tournament, buying into a live keno game or tournament, or by obtaining newspaper coupons. The customers placed their entries into a tumbler, and at scheduled times, a casino employee pulled an entry card from the tumbler and announced the name. The winning customer had three minutes to claim the prize. The customer would then choose a number between 1 and 13 on a large game board and they would win the cash prize listed behind the number they selected. The cash prizes ranged from $250 to $2,500.

2. Juan R. Correa co-conspired with another employee in the Marketing Department to manipulate the weekly Player's Club drawing to produce a certain predictable winner. Mr. Correa would select a predetermined winner for the drawing and advise the winner when to expect their name to be called. He also advised which number to select on the prize board. After the predetermined winner claimed their cash prize, they gave a portion of the winnings to Mr. Correa.

3. On July 18, 2013, an Indictment against Juan R. Correa and 41 co-conspirators was filed in the United States District Court Eastern District of Washington, Mr. Correa was charged with:

- Count one (Conspiracy to Steal Casino Funds in excess of $1,000): from at least February 6, 2013, through May 15, 2013, knowingly, willfully, and unlawfully conspired to commit an offense against the United states, willfully misapply and take away with the intent to steal money in excess of $1,000 belonging to a gaming establishment operated by and for an Indian Tribe in violation of Title 18 Unites States Code, Sections 1167 (b) and 371.
- Counts 2-23 (Theft by Employee of Gaming Establishment on Indian Lands): committed overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy to accomplish the objectives by: stealing money in excess of $1,000 and aid and abet the same; all in violation of Title 18 United States Code, Sections 1168 (b) and 2, and;
- Counts 45-68 (Theft by Employee of Gaming Establishment on Indian Lands): did steal money with a value less than $1,000 and did aid and abet the same in Title 18 United States Code, Sections 1168 (b) and 2.

4. Mr. Correa was charged with one count of Conspiracy to Steal Casino Funds in excess of $1,000, 21 counts of Theft by Employee of Gaming Establishment on Indian Lands in excess of $1,000, and 23 counts of Theft by Employee of Gaming Establishment on Indian Lands less than $1,000. The charges are currently pending, the case is set to go to a jury trial on November 18, 2013.

5. The Yakama Nation Tribal Gaming Commission terminated Juan Correa on September 12, 2013, and is in the process of revoking Mr. Correa's tribal license.
