Re: Crazy Tower Amusement Game

Dear Mr. Manning,

Thank you for submitting the Crazy Tower amusement game, manufactured by Adrenaline Amusements, to us for review.

We have completed our review. It is my understanding the game plays as follows:

Players press a button to attempt to stack floors on top of each other to create the highest tower. If the floor is not stacked properly the exceeding parts are chopped off. If the target is missed completely, the game ends. Players win tickets based on their score during game play. Up to 4 players can play the game at the same time.

The Crazy Tower game meets the definition of an amusement game (RCW 9.46.0201) and is approved for use as a Group 5 Hand/Eye Coordination (WAC 230-13-035) amusement game in Washington State.

Please be advised that any modifications to the Crazy Tower Amusement game software or associated equipment must be provided to us for additional testing and review. In the manual there is an option to receive updates to the game via the internet gamelauncher. This feature must be disabled in Washington, as all software updates must be approved prior to operation.

In addition, amusement games operated in Washington must not have settings that allow the operator to control the outcome of the game (auto percentaging). The approval of this equipment may be rescinded at any time if problems are found by the Commission or changes to the Washington Administrative Code (WAC) impact this approval. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact Sonja Dolson at (425) 277-7026.

Sincerely,

Josh Stueckle
